NOTES IN SEASON.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will bring out during May, Antonio Fogazzaro's "Malombra," translated into English as "Woman," by F. Thorold Dickson.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. have decided to complete their edition of the Temple edition of Molière, published in England by Dent. When they first took up the Temple edition they issued six volumes of Molière. The demands for the remaining works have been so persistent that they have made their present decision. The text will be French, with notes and introductions.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. will publish on the 13th inst. "Langford of the Three Bars," by Kate and Virgil D. Boyles, a story of South Dakota in the days when the "rustlers" held sway in the cattle country—when they owned the deputy sheriffs and the juries—owned almost everybody except Langford, the hero of this story, and his friend Gordon, the county attorney—and thereby hangs the tale. N. C. Wyeth has furnished the illustrations and cover design.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. publish this week Miss Anna Chapin Ray's "Ackroyd of the Faculty," which was unavoidably delayed last week. The story deals with the relation springing up between a self-made man and a woman of assured social position, but the elusive, intangible quality of social superiority in the United States makes the real problem quite different from that presented in recent novels with a similar plot but dealing with English conditions.

SMALL, MAYNARD & Co. will publish about May 1 a novel by Armiger Bartlett, entitled "The King Makers," a tale of Sergia, one of those imaginary European States already composing a continent as large as South America, and bidding fair to extend to Asian dimensions before all the novelists have created a tract. The Prince of Sergia, being dethroned, sets his affections on a British diplomat's daughter, a disposal which proves to be very worldly wise. The illustrations are to be by Piffard and Edwards.

DUFFIELD & Co. have just ready "A Winged Victory," a new novel by Robert Morss Lovett, Professor of English Literature in the University of Chicago. Some of the scenes in the new book depicting "co-educational" life in that university may be expected to contribute an unhackneyed note in fiction. Professor Lovett was a contemporary at Harvard of William Vaughn Moody, author of that successful play, "The Great Divide," with whom he collaborated some years ago on "A History of English Literature." "The Plays of Our Forefathers," by Professor Charles M. Gayley, after several postponements, is announced for issue in the coming autumn by Duffield & Company. The author, who is Professor of English Literature in the University of California, at Berkeley, is a special authority on the early drama.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just published "A Critical and Exegetical Commentary on the Gospel According to St. Matthew," by Willoughby C. Allen, of Exeter College, one of the International Critical Commentary series; the ninth volume of the collected works of Henrik Ibsen, containing "Rosmersholm" and "The Lady from the Sea," with introductions by William Archer, who translated the former, the latter being Mrs. Frances E. Archer's translation; "Prophet's Landing," a novel by Edwin Asa Dix, who wrote "Deacon Bradbury" and "Old Bowen's Legacy," the story dealing with the growth of an able man in a small New England town, and his application of modern business methods to his work; also, "The Spider, and Other Tales," by Carl Ewald, translated from the Danish by Alexander Teixeira De Mattos.

The expulsion of a number of Jewish students from the University of Odessa is the opening scene of a story of Russian persecution. The names of two intimate friends are on the proscribed list—one is remarkably handsome, the other extremely ugly. The good looks of the first are so pleasing to the Prefect's wife, when they go up for a last appeal, that he is allowed to remain at the university, while his friend is dismissed. Baruch Volkmann becomes the Prefect's secretary, is introduced into society, and after a struggle denies his religion that he may obtain government preference. A striking narrative follows of pathos and revenge between Jew and Christian.

- Ragg, Rev. Lonsdale. Dante and his Italy. N. Y., Putnam, 1907. 22+380 p. il. O. cl., *$3.50 net.
"The plan of the work is simple. Opening with a bird's-eye view of Europe at the critical moment of Dante's life, the 'ideal date' of his vision, it then starts afresh with the beginning of the century that closes with his death, and traverses the period in ever-narrowing circles: Europe, Italy, Florence, and finally Dante and his literary friends in Florence and his hosts in exile."—Preface. Quotations from Dante are usually in the original, with translations and notes. The work well covers the time, the place, the man, and his friends, as seen through the poet's eyes, and but little irrelevant matter is introduced. Author is English chaplain at Venice and Prebendary of Buckden in Lincoln Cathedral. Bibliography (4 p.).

The Bankside edition, published in 1888-1891, was originally intended to number 20 volumes and to include only the First folio plays of which First quarto texts were in existence. "Loues labour's lost" was one of these, but owing to an accident to the photographs of the text during the passage of the work through the press, "Pericles," of which there is a First quarto text but no First folio one, was substituted. "Loues labour's lost" is now added, being the First quarto text of 1598 paralleled with the First folio of 1623, with introduction by Dr. Isaac Hull Platt, a trustee of the New York Shakespeare Society.

Presents an account of the life of Frederick Douglass as a slave and as a public man during the most eventful years of the anti-slavery movement, the Civil War, the period of reconstruction, and the after years of comparative freedom from sectional agitation over the negro problem. To bring this study within the plan and purpose of the "Crisis Series" such subjects as: "The Genesis of the anti-slavery agitation," "The fugitive slave law," "The underground railway," "The American colonization society," "The conflict in Kansas for free soil," "The John Brown raid," "The enlistment of colored troops," and "Reconstruction," have been given more space than they have received in earlier biographies.

According to the author of "The re-shaping of the Far East," a work which presented in readable form a detailed account of things as they then existed in further Asia, affairs in the Far East, seen from the occidental point of view, are actually but little improved since the Russo-Japanese war. Commercially, a new menace is in danger of being added to the old, resulting from Japan's continued and enormous borrowings, and the probable re-opening of the Korean question in the near future. In the appendices have been inserted as many documents as are considered peculiarly pertinent to the subject-matter of the political chapters. Index.

About the middle of the eighteenth century, and continuing to the first quarter of the nineteenth, it was the practice to send cargoes of maidens from the hearthstones of France to be disposed of in marriage by the Ursuline nuns to the soldiers guarding "the little village in the swamp," now known as New Orleans, as a reward of good conduct. The story deals with an unusually interesting experiment of the kind.

The author of "Edward Fitzgerald," "Sir Richard Burton," etc., has now written of one of the most brilliant and most original writers of the Victorian era. Begins with a criticism of A. C. Benson's "Walter Pater." For twelve years he has worked on these volumes. Pater knew all the celebrated men of his day, and much is learned of all of them in this careful study. Several appendices give valuable information on the ancestry of Pater; a bibliography of 74 titles; many notes concerning Pater's friends; poems from Pater's books and about them; and a full index to both volumes. The illustrations are of distinct value and great interest.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

APRIL 6, 1907.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

UNSALABLE STOCK.

A SUCCESSFUL bookseller and stationer, during a discussion some time ago of the problem of unsalable stock, said, "I don't acknowledge, even to myself, that anything I carry in stock is unsalable." Of course, the statement was regarded with incredulity by his hearers, and few were convinced of the sincerity of the speaker. However, the statement was not altogether made boastfully, and depended upon the following facts:

The dealer referred to explained that all that was necessary was judgment and experience in buying; as he was careful not to be carried away by "fads," or by seductive offers of extra discounts on stock for which he saw no chance of an outlet, he was seldom bitten. In short, he preferred to err on the side of conservatism—not to load himself down with a larger stock of books and other goods than he could work off before they became passé—rather than to take a gambler's chance in "plunging."

Yet this dealer's stock was fresh and up-to-date every season, due in great measure no doubt to good judgment in selection, which also includes a thorough knowledge of the bookseller's market, so that he can tell down to a reasonably fine point just about how much he can dispose of certain goods before they begin to become stale or shopworn. By watching his stock carefully the bookseller will be able not only to keep gaps filled up to the limit of demand, but also to become aware which lines move slowly and therefore need extra efforts to push.

There can be no doubt that close and careful buying counts for much; but good selling must not be overlooked. While it should be every merchant's ambition to build up as large a trade as possible in standard and staple goods, he should also be prepared to handle the novelties, even the "fads" of the hour for which there is certain to be more or less call, and in the judicious and expert handling of which there will often be considerable profit. In undertaking to deal in such stock it will be necessary of course to exercise care and judgment in buying; but, above all, it will require a determination to push and sell such goods, to the end that the unsold portion may be reduced to a negligible quantity or that "there will be no core" at all.

MAIL IMPORTATION REGULATIONS.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, Circular no. 17, from the Division of Customs, of which copies can be had by addressing the Secretary of the Treasury, revises regulations as to mail importations and is, indeed, a codification of the whole subject, superseding all previous circulars and regulations. Its main purpose is to expedite the delivery of foreign mails by providing for the detail of customs officers at exchange post-offices of receipt, furnishing at such offices facilities for segregating dutiable mail matter, rating the dutiable contents of unsealed packages, (which will be forwarded to the office of address with a customs label serially numbered, to facilitate tracing,) and forwarding to remote offices sealed packages supposed to contain dutiable articles, which are to be opened by the addressee at such post-offices and transmitted to the nearest customs post-office for rating and return to addressee for collection of duty. Undutiable and smuggled mail matter containing or supposed to contain dutiable articles will be turned over to the Treasury for the usual disposition, and newspapers will be examined at irregular intervals, and duty, not a fine, will be assessed on printed matter, including books, not prohibited.

The United States is a party to the Universal Postal Convention, now including sixty-four countries, which form a single postal territory for the reciprocal exchange of correspondence including letters, post cards, prints, commercial papers, and samples of merchandise of no salable value but excluding articles subject to customs duty. The limits for commercial papers are 4 pounds 6 ounces weight and 18 inches in either dimension, or if a roll, 30 inches long and 4 inches in diameter, and for merchandise 12 ounces weight and 12 inches in length, 8 inches in breadth and 4 inches in depth dimensions, or if a roll 12 inches long and 6 inches in diameter.

The United States has secondly "parcels-post conventions" with thirty-three countries or colonies, relating only to parcels of mail matter and not letters, post cards and written matter, under which dutiable articles are admitted if properly wrapped for examination and having attached the usual customs declarations stating contents and value. The limits of value, weight and size vary with different countries, but are usually $50 in value, 4 pounds 6 ounces in weight and 3 feet 6 inches, with a maximum length and girth within 6 feet; parcels beyond these limits are immediately returned to countries of origin. Parcels-post parcels are subject to duties and not fines, except cigars and cigarettes in illegal quantities; but packages containing dutiable contents sent without declarations will be treated as under the Universal Postal Convention and be subject to fines, not duties.

The United States has thirdly postal conventions with Canada, Mexico, Cuba, and the Republic of Panama, which authorize the exchange of articles of every kind admitted to domestic mails, without the necessities of customs declarations, articles other than letters being wrapped for examination. Duties and not fines are assessed, except on cigars and cigarettes as above, packages sealed against inspection being immediately returned to the country of origin.

The United States fourthly extends its domestic rates and conditions to its insular dependencies and the Canal Zone and the Postal Agency at Shanghai; and on unsealed parcels, except cigars or cigarettes as above, duties and not fines will be assessed.

Following are some of the provisions relating directly to the letters and sealed packages:

SEALED PACKAGE DEFINED.

A sealed package is such as can be opened without destroying the wrapper or causing material damage to the contents.

LETTERS AND SEALED PACKAGES GENERALLY.

The sending of dutiable articles in letters and sealed packages, registered or not registered, in the mails exchanged with any country is prohibited.

PRINTED MATTER DEFINED.

The act of 1879 (section 19) defines printed matter to be the reproduction upon paper by any process except that of handwriting of any words, letters, characters, figures, or images, or any combination thereof, not having the character of an actual personal correspondence.

The Post Office Department defines printed matter to be "all impressions or reproductions obtained upon paper, parchment, or cardboard by means of printing, engraving, lithographing, autographing, or any other mechanical process easy to recognize, except the copying press and typewriter."

BOOKS AND OTHER PRINTED MATTER.

Duties, and not fines, will be assessed on books and other dutiable printed matter not absolutely prohibited from any country, whether contained in letters, or sealed or unsealed packages.

FAILURE OF ADDRESSEE TO RESPOND TO NOTICE TO APPEAR.

If an addressee fails to respond within thirty days to the notice sent him of the receipt of a letter or sealed package, the same will be treated as undelivered, except in the case of a registered package, which, under the postal regulations, is required to be held for a longer period.

"DELIVERY" DEFINED.

"Delivery" is defined by Bouvier to be "Transmitting the possession of a thing from one person into the power and possession of another." It must divest the donor of possession and dominion over the thing given, and must be a positive change of possession. (Crouse v. Judson, 84 N. Y. Supp., 755 et seq.) The word "delivery" means the actual manual delivery to the party addressed or his authorized agent. (United States v. McCree, 11 Fed. Rep., 225; People's National Bank v. Freeman's National Bank, 47 N. E., 588, and 169 Mass., 129.)

Therefore, if the addressee of an ordinary letter or sealed package after opening the same, or the addressee of a sealed registered letter or package after receipting for and opening the same, or the addressee of an unsealed registered package after receipting for the same, declines to pay the duty, if any be due, and to accept full delivery, the letter or package shall be treated in the manner provided in these regulations for undelivered letters, sealed and unsealed packages.

SEIZURES OF LETTERS AND SEALED PACKAGES.

Postmasters retain custody of letters and sealed packages until they are opened by addressees. Therefore, customs officers will not open or seize any letter or sealed package until after it is opened by the addressee. Seizable packages for delivery at offices where there is no customs officer may, upon request of a customs officer, be taken into custody by postmasters, after being opened by addressees, and forwarded to said officers.

REDIRECTED LETTERS AND SEALED PACKAGES.

When a supposed dutiable letter or sealed package is redirected from one post office to another, the postmaster at the forwarding office must be careful to see that the label "Supposed liable to customs duty" remains attached thereto, and shall notify the collector of customs as per label [furnished by the Treasury Department], stating the date of forwarding and name of post office to which forwarded.

FINES COLLECTED ON LETTERS AND SEALED PACKAGES CANNOT BE REFUNDED.

Customs fines collected on letters and sealed packages cannot be refunded. If any dissatisfaction exists, payment should be suspended, and notice given to postmasters, who will hold the goods and immediately communicate the grounds of objection to the collectors of customs issuing the entries and forward to them such papers or statements as the addressees may submit.

RELEASE OF MAIL IMPORTATIONS.

The Secretary of the Treasury may, upon a proper showing, authorize the release, on payment of a fine equal to the duty, of any dutiable letter or sealed package.

Collectors and surveyors are authorized to release seized mail importations, first offense, when the duties do not exceed $25. When the duties exceed $25, or a second or subsequent offense has been committed, releases will be made only upon written application to the Secretary of the Treasury.

PROHIBITED IMPORTATIONS IN LETTERS AND SEALED PACKAGES.

Any article prohibited transmission in the domestic mails is prohibited importation in the mails exchanged with foreign countries.

The importation of dutiable articles except books and other printed matter in letters and sealed packages being prohibited, such letters and packages (except packages from Canada, Mexico, Cuba, and the Republic of Panama, which are to be immediately returned to the country of origin) are liable to seizure, after delivery to addressees, and may be released for consumption on payment of fines equal to duties or appraised home values, or for return to the country of origin.

UNDERVALUATIONS IN PARCELS-POST DECLARATIONS.

The provisions of section 32 of the act of July 24, 1897, relating to undervaluation and seizure are not to be applied to mail parcels when the value returned by the appraiser exceeds the value stated by the sender.

Customs officers will, however, require formal entry whenever it is deemed necessary for proper administration. In cases where it appears that the same sender makes a practice of undervaluing in the declarations the contents of parcels-post packages, the facts will be reported to the Secretary of the Treasury for instructions.

SAMPLES.

Duty or a fine will not be assessed on a letter or sealed or unsealed parcel containing samples less than $1 in value, or of no commercial value, and so reported by the appraiser; but where more than one parcel to the same addressee is received in the same mail, and the appraising officer shall determine that the samples in the aggregate have a commercial value of $1 or more, duty or a fine on the appraised value will be collected.

EXAMINATION OF NEWSPAPERS BY CUSTOMS OFFICERS.

Postmasters at exchange offices of receipt will permit customs officers to examine at irregular intervals, and at least once every thirty days, newspapers received in the mails from foreign countries. If deemed necessary for the protection of the revenue, such newspapers may be examined at more frequent intervals.

PROHIBITED IMPORTATION OF MUSIC AND OTHER COPYRIGHTED ARTICLES.

Letters and sealed packages supposed to contain music prohibited importation by the copyright laws will be so marked by postmasters at exchange offices of receipt. The postmasters at offices of delivery will, in such cases, require addressees to open the letters or packages in their (the postmasters') presence, and if the contents are found to be music the same shall be forwarded to the nearest customs officer, who will, if the music appears to be in violation of the law, notify the addressees and the owners of the copyright of the detention thereof. If within three months the owners of the copyright do not institute forfeiture proceedings, or the addressees do not appear and show to the satisfaction of the customs officers that the articles are not prohibited, the same shall be destroyed. Unsealed parcels containing music will be immediately delivered into the custody of the nearest customs officer, who will proceed as in the case of letters and sealed packages containing music.

Other copyrighted articles prohibited importation by section 4956 of the Revised Statutes, as amended by section 3 of the act of March 3, 1891, and articles bearing false notice of copyright (section 4963 of the Revised Statutes, as amended by the act of March 3, 1897), will, after being opened by addressees in cases of letters and sealed packages, be seized, and the facts reported to the Secretary of the Treasury for proper instructions.

THE CATHOLIC ENCYCLOPEDIA.*

ROBERT APPLETON COMPANY, incorporated in February, 1905, for the express purpose of publishing "The Catholic Encyclopedia," have just issued volume I of the fifteen volumes that are to constitute that great work.

"The Catholic Encyclopedia" proposes to give its readers full and authoritative information on the entire cycle of Roman Catholic interests, action and doctrine. It differs from the general encyclopedia in omitting facts and information which have no relation to the Catholic Church; but it is not exclusively limited to the ecclesiastical sciences and the doings of churchmen. It records all that Catholics have done for the intellectual and artistic development of the world as well as in behalf of charity and morals. As it has been often asserted that Catholic principles are an obstacle to scientific research, it seemed needful to register how much Catholics have really contributed to every department of knowledge. Designed to present its readers with the full body of Catholic teaching, the work will contain not only precise statements of what the church has defined, but also a record of different views of acknowledged authority on all disputed questions. In all things the object of "The Catholic Encyclopedia" is to give the whole truth as far as possible without prejudice, national, political or factional. In the determination of the facts the most recent and acknowledged scientific methods are employed, and the results of the latest research in theology, philosophy, history, apologetics, archaeology and other sciences are carefully considered by contributors who rank as authority on the special subject entrusted to them. They represent Catholic scholarship in every part of the world, they sign their articles with full name and they assume full responsibility for what they have written.

*The Catholic encyclopedia: an international work of reference on the constitution, doctrine, discipline, and history of the Catholic Church; edited by Charles G. Herbermann, Edward A. Pace, D.D., Thomas J. Shahan, D.D., Condé B. Pallen, John J. Wynne, S.J., assisted by numerous collaborators. In 15 vols., v. 1. N. Y., Robert Appleton Company, 1907. c. 4to, per v., buckram, $6; 3/4 morocco, $8; full morocco, $15.

Charles George Herbermann, editor-in-chief of "The Catholic Encyclopedia," is Professor of Latin Languages and Literature in the College of the City of New York since 1869; and his chief assistants are the Rev. Dr. Thomas J. Shahan, Professor of Church History and Patrology in the Catholic University of America; the Rev. John J. Wynne, S.J., the scholarly editor of The Messenger; the Rev. Dr. Edward Aloysius Pace, Professor of Philosophy in the Catholic University of America; and Condé Benoist Pallen, the well-known contributor to Catholic publications on philosophical and literary topics, whose interpretation of "The Idylls of the King" drew from Tennyson a warm letter of appreciation. The latter is managing editor of the undertaking.

The fifteen volumes are estimated to contain 30,000 articles, 15,000,000 words, 2000 maps and illustrations, a vast mass of material to pass under the criticism of these five scholars.

The publishers have made a handsome book. Under great difficulties they have planned and managed the mechanical execution of the work. Type, printing, paper and binding have been chosen with judgment as to fitness and the durability required in such an important work of reference. Two more volumes will be put out during the year, and three volumes a year are promised after that till the work is complete.

THE SONGWRIGHT.

"THERE seems to be no end to the discovery of new employments in New York," says the New York Sun, "and among those which threaten to become professions are literary adviser and what, in default of any illuminating phrase, may be called songwright. Literary advisers have been known in one sense since book publishing became a business, but at the moment the phrase is used to designate two men who make their living by advising authors with respect to their writings. These men are not attached to any publishing house, and they never act as literary agents. Their sole business is to tell authors when they have written rubbish and how to make their manuscripts readable and marketable. They sometimes undertake to rewrite books or parts of books, but in the main they limit themselves to criticism for which the author pays them and then does the revision himself.

"Every music publisher has at least one man on his staff who undertakes to lick into shape the work of ignorant composers when it has the promise of popularity, but the songwright, like the literary advisers, is unattached. It seems that a legion of persons have some slight gift of melody without the faintest knowledge of how to put it correctly on paper with effective accompaniment. The songwright—there is at least one in New York—puts the impossible manuscript in such shape that the publisher's reader can find out what it means."

BIBLIOGRAPHY OF BRIDGE WHIST.

"WHEN bridge was once firmly established," according to a recent contribution to the London Saturday Review, "the necessity arose for a recognized and authorized code of laws for the new game, and a committee of three members of the Portland was appointed in December, 1895, to draft the required code. The task was a difficult one, as their knowledge of the game was at that early stage a very elementary one, but the work was so skilfully and successfully done that the code of laws then drawn up lasted, practically unaltered, for a period of ten years and stood the test of covering all the debatable points of the game. These laws were issued early in 1895, and in July of the same year they were submitted to a joint committee of the Portland and Turf Clubs, and, being passed with a few unimportant alterations, they became the standard laws of English bridge and remained so until another joint committee of the same clubs issued 'Revised Laws of Bridge,' at the end of 1904.

"In February, 1895, T. De La Rue & Co. published 'The Laws of Bridge, with a Guide to the Game,' by 'Boaz.' With the exception of a small pamphlet already mentioned this was the first bridge book ever published in England, or, as far as we know, in any other country. A second edition of it appeared later in the same year, giving the authorized code of laws after they had been passed by the joint committee, and this was followed by two other editions in 1896 and 1897. In March, 1898, a fifth edition was published, together with a short treatise entitled 'How to Play Bridge,' by 'Badsworth.' 'Badsworth' was the nom de plume of a well-known member of the Portland Club, one of the ablest exponents of the game, and this little brochure remained the standard book on the subject for some three years.

"In 1899 a book on bridge was published in India by 'John Doe,' and an English edition of the same work was published in London in 1900. Also in 1899 appeared 'Bridge, and How to Play It,' by Archibald Dunn, Jr.; but by far the most important book on the game published in that year, although it is now very little known, was the 'Pons Asinorum, or, Bridge for Beginners,' by A. G. Hulme-Beaman. Mr. Hulme-Beaman, author of 'Twenty Years in the Near East,' started as a student dragoman in the Levant. He was always good at games and sports, and a man of singularly bright intellect. He wrote of the game of bridge from many years' personal experience. Here again we find the value of the no-trump call given as ten points per trick instead of twelve, and Mr. Beaman writes of the methods of the well-known veteran bridge player, M. Mavrogordato, which goes to prove that the game of bridge was no novelty in those climes, but an institution of many years' standing.

"It was not until 1901 that any really standard work on the subject made its appearance. In that year T. De La Rue & Co., who have ever been the pioneers of card literature, published, almost simultaneously, 'Bridge Abridged or, Practical Bridge, by W. Dalton, and 'Hellespont on Bridge', 'Hellespont' being the pseudonym of a gentleman residing in India who is said to have had great experience of the game as it is played in the East. These two books have had a large sale, for both have run through several editions, and they still hold their place as the two standard works on the game. About the same time, or possibly a little earlier, an excellent elementary book for beginners was written by Mrs. J. R. Tennant, entitled 'The A B C of Bridge.' This little book also had, as it well deserved, a large sale, and many were the players whom it initiated into the mysteries of the game. It still sells.

"After these came a perfect flood of bridge literature, good, bad and indifferent, going over the same old ground again and again, and adding little of interest to what had been already written on the subject. There were a few notable exceptions, such as 'Badsworth's' larger book, published in 1903, J. B. Elwell's two excellent books, published in New York, and Mr. Foster's many books, published in New York and in London; but most of the subsequent works were little more than a repetition, more or less paraphrased, of what had been written in the earlier text-books.

"There never was any game about which so many people have aired their different opinions. A study of the bibliography of the game shows us that between 1901 and 1906 something like one hundred books were published dealing entirely with the practice of bridge, and the list is not yet completed."

AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH AND COPYRIGHT.

ACCORDING to proclamations published in the Commonwealth of Australia Gazette of January 26, the administration of the State Copyright Acts of the States of New South Wales, Victoria, Queensland, South Australia and Western Australia, so far as they relate to the registration of the copyright in any book, the performing right in any musical or dramatic work, the lecturing right in any lecture, and the copyright in any artistic or fine art work, or to the registration of any assignment or grant of, or license in relation to, any such right, was to be transferred to the Commonwealth on February 1, and the administration of the State Designs Acts of the States of New South Wales, Victoria, Queensland, South Australia, Western Australia and Tasmania was to be transferred to the Commonwealth also on February 1.

PLAGIARISMS OF DICKENS'S "NICHOLAS NICKLEBY."

THE curious plagiarisms to which Dickens's popularity exposed him when his "Nicholas Nickleby" was first published are noted in a recent number of The Manchester Guardian. "Disreputable publishers rushed into the market," we are told, "with the most extraordinary imitations of his work, which they succeeded in putting off upon a public less educated and less protected by the press than that of to-day.

"He had no sooner begun to publish 'Nicholas Nickleby,' in the usual monthly parts, than a rival appeared in the field with the 'Nickleby Papers,' by Poz, in penny weekly numbers. Not content with this, the same writer brought out later a continuation to 'Nickleby,' in which Squeers was represented as having returned from Botany Bay, and was ultimately shot while engaged in breaking into Nicholas Nickleby's house in Devonshire. Another impudent piracy was 'Nickelas Nickleberry,' by Bos, 'containing the adventures, misadventures, chances, mischances, fortunes, misfortunes, mysteries, miseries and miscellaneous manœuvres of the family of Nickleberry.' This was a thinly disguised parody of Dickens's novel, in which Vincent Crummles became Montmorency Crumples, Smike appeared as Snikes, and so forth. There was also 'Scenes from the Life of Nickleby Married,' by Guess, with illustrations by Quiz. Nowadays these things have a commercial value to the Dickens collector. In their time they were a considerable annoyance to Dickens, who seems to have been unable to stop their publication. It is impossible to imagine a popular author of to-day being harassed by this method."

AFFAIRS OF THE CONSOLIDATED RETAIL BOOKSELLERS.

A MEETING of the creditors of the Consolidated Retail Booksellers, called by Merrill E. Gates, Jr., trustee in the bankruptcy proceedings, was held at the offices of Peter B. Olney on Friday, March 29. About twenty-five creditors were represented in person or by proxy, and it was voted to permit the trustee to compromise with various subscribers to the preferred stock on the best terms obtainable, rather than prolong the proceedings into greater uncertainties. The trustee was also authorized to accept 20 cents a copy for the book called "Hide and Seek" and $15 for the plates, and to collect claims aggregating $2000, the cost of such collection being about $150.

The question of bringing suit against James Talcott to recover the amount of a certain transfer of accounts amounting to some seven thousand dollars drew forth considerable discussion, and it was finally agreed to rest this matter also with the trustee. The author of "The Red Keggars," one of the creditors, spoke with considerable feeling in favor of a criminal suit against both the former secretary and the general manager of the Consolidated Retail Booksellers, and a civil suit against Talcott for the recovery of the value of the transferred accounts made, as he claimed, after the corporation was known from within to be insolvent.

From an informal statement made by the trustee the creditors cannot hope to get more than ten per cent. of their claims. If the claim of the State of New Jersey for unpaid corporation taxes is allowed, the amount for final distribution would well-nigh reach the vanishing point.

OBITUARY NOTES.

JOHN WASHINGTON RHOADES, for years manager of the New York News Company, and since 1903 circulation manager of the American News Company, died on March 31 at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Rhoades, the eldest son of David Peck Rhoades, (one of the founders of the New York News Company, and for years its manager, who died on February 3, at Stratford, Conn.) was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1847. He entered the employ of the New York News Company as a boy and worked his way up to the post of manager when his father retired in 1867. In 1903 he became a member of the Board of Managers of the American News Company, acting as the associate of the late Edward S. Carr, whom he succeeded when he retired in the same year. Mr. Rhoades leaves a widow and a son, J. Howard Rhoades, the present manager of the New York News Company.

WILLIAM DOBSON REEVES, of the old firm of Reeves & Turner, who was for nearly half a century one of the leading dealers in old books in London, died on March 17 at 28 Avenue Road, Southend, London. Mr. Reeves was born in London on March 25, 1825, and was the son of William Reeves, bookseller, publisher, actor and playwright of Bridge Court, Westminster. His old partner, Mr. Turner, who died some years ago, was also born in 1825, on April 6. Mr. Reeves started in business in Chancery Lane, in 1848, and on three successive occasions was the victim of "improvements" which necessitated his removal. His shop at 196, Strand, was for a long series of years one of the pleasantest in London. He was a friend, and for many years the publisher, of William Morris, and issued Buxton Forman's admirable editions of Keats and Shelley. He bought the copyright of J. R. Smith's Library of Old English Authors, and reissued it at a low price. William Reeves, of Charing Cross Road, (whither he removed after being in business for many years in Fleet Street,) and David Reeves, of Wellington Street, Strand, are sons of the late Mr. Reeves. The name of the old firm, Reeves & Turner, is maintained by the branch for the sale of law books.

MAARTEN MAARTENS, (J. M. W. van der Poorten Schwartz,) the Dutch novelist, arrived in New York City on the 3d inst. He came here as the guest of Andrew Carnegie, and will attend the dedication of the Carnegie Institute in Pittsburg.

W. T. STEAD, editor of the Review of Reviews, arrived by the Caronia on the 3d inst. Mr. Stead said that one of the objects of his visit, the fourth he has made to America, was to sound American sentiment in exalted places on the Hague conference.

DR. WILLIAM HENRY DRUMMOND, one of Canada's best-known literary men and the author of the "Habitant," and other collections of verse, was stricken on the 2d inst. with paralysis at Cobalt, Canada, whither he had gone to take charge of work on the Drummond mine, which is owned by his brothers and himself. The condition of Dr. Drummond is said to be serious.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

MARTINUS NIJHOFF, of the Hague, has just brought out a new issue of his "Fonds catalogus"—books published by the Nijhoff firm from 1853 to 1906. The catalogue is arranged by subjects, under twenty-one general heads, and alphabetically by authors. (1466 titles, bds.)

THE MCGRAW PUBLISHING COMPANY has published a list of "Books on Cement and Plain and Reinforced Concrete," and one on "Steam Turbine Engineering," which, it is believed, include all of the books in the English language on these two subjects brought down to date. The list of books on cement, etc., comprises 31 titles, that on steam turbine engineering 14 titles. The titles are annotated.

THE BOSTON BOOK COMPANY, 83 Fenway Street, Boston, Mass., has just brought out the "Index to Reference Lists published in Library Bulletins from October, 1901, to December, 1906, inclusive, compiled by the Providence (R. I.) Public Library," originally printed in the Bulletin of Bibliography for January and April, 1907. Upwards of eight hundred subjects have been recorded. (32 p. 16°, pap., 25 c.)

P. A. NORSTEDT & SÖNER, Stockholm, have published the first number of the second part of J. A. Almquist's "Sveriges bibliografiska litteratur: Arkiv-och biblioteksväsen," in which the author attempts to cover all works relating to Swedish archival and library matters, whether they appear in the Swedish language or in any other language in which the subject is treated, or whether the collections and institutions are in Sweden or in other countries. (122 p. 8°, pap.)

A SELECT list of works relating to the taxation of inheritances and incomes has been issued by the Library of Congress. It is primarily concerned with works in the library relating to inheritance and income taxation in the United States. A portion of the list, however, is devoted to such forms of taxation in foreign countries. The titles of the works on inheritance taxation are given first, and then those on income taxation. Next follow a list of Congressional documents and debates relating to direct taxation, and a list of treatises on the Constitution of the United States which give consideration to the taxing power under the Constitution. No attempt has been made to render this list absolutely comprehensive or even to exhaust the resources of the library on the subject. The aim has been rather to serve the interests of the general inquirer, although here and there the specialist may find some incidental aid. The publication is for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office. (86 p. 8°, pap., 20 c.)

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS.—C. G. Boerner, Nürnbergerstr., 44, Leipzig, Katalog einer Ausgewählten Sammlung von Erst-Drucken u. Seltenheiten der Werke Johann Wolfgang v. LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have brought out an edition, bound in leather, of G. D. Roberts's "New York Nocturnes," a book of verse which contains some of the best lyrics that Mr. Roberts has written.

THE FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY are arranging to bring out at an early date a translation of J. Grasset's "Demi-fous et Demi-responsables," which in the French edition has already attracted attention in this country.

THE April dinner of The Booksellers' League will be given at the Aldine Association, 111 Fifth Avenue, on Wednesday evening, April 10, at 6:30. Unless members notify Francis Gilman, room 413, 5 Beekman Street, before April 9, no provision will be made for them at the table.

THE AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY, Philadelphia, announces a new series, (The Windflower Series), of cloth bound books that were originally published by the Society at $1 and $1.25. The series comprises twenty-three popular titles, most of them suitable for gift purposes.

THE fine library of Brunetière, consisting of from twelve to fifteen thousand volumes, many of them annotated by M. Brunetière, is in the market. It has been reported that the collection is to be purchased for Harvard. Brunetière had a liking for old books, rare editions and fine bindings.

THE CENTURY COMPANY will publish shortly a new book by Luther Burbank, the California scientist, which sets forth Mr. Burbank's theories on "The Training of the Human Plant," and is based on the article which appeared in the May Century. They will publish this month a new story by Jean Webster, author of "When Patty Went to College."

THE current number of the London Academy, according to a special cable despatch to the New York Sun, has a literary "howler" in the form of a favorable review of the late G. H. Lewes's "Life of Goethe." It comments upon the quantity of new information in the book. The work reviewed is a new edition of the famous "Life" which was published in 1855.

B. W. HUEBSCH is about to publish "Seventy Years Young, or, the Unhabitual Way," by Emily M. Bishop, a book of common sense as the elixir of life; "Gaining Health in the West," by George B. Price, who bases his book on personal experience in the search for a consumption cure in Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona; and Otto Pfeleiderer's work, "Religion and Historic Faiths," a companion work to his last year's publication, "Christian Origins."

MOFFAT, YARD & COMPANY will publish at once "Gethsemane and Afterward," by the Rev. Dr. Cyrus Townsend Brady, a collation from the four Gospels of the story of Christ's life, from Gethsemane to the Resurrection, made, with but slight changes from the original, into a dramatic form. In a few weeks they will bring out "Nineveh, and Other Poems," by George Sylvester Viereck, containing not only the young German-American's English poems, but also the translation of the most celebrated of his poems in German.

THE hostility between publishers and authors which is so much reported and emphasized must sometimes bring about unpleasant family relations if it really exists. Henry S. King, the publisher of Tennyson, for many years published also "The Disciples" and other poems by Mrs. Hamilton King, whom he had wooed and won because he so much admired her maiden manuscripts. Kegan Paul, who succeeded to the business of Mr. King, was himself an author, and he published also some novels by his wife. His partner was Mr. Trench, the son of a literary archbishop.

OTTO HOLZSCHUHER, on March 31, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his career as a bookseller. Mr. Holzschuher came to this country from Germany in 1874, and entered the employ of G. E. Stechert. In 1890 he took a position with S. Zickel, with whom he remained seven years, when he returned to Stechert's, thus rounding out twenty-five years' service in that firm. Mr. Holzschuher is a bookseller of the old school in the sense that he is thorough, conscientious, loyal and exceedingly modest. May he live many years longer to enjoy the confidence of his employers and the good will and respect of his colleagues.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have just ready a new work by Miss Vida D. Scudder, author of "Letters of St. Catherine of Siena," called "The Disciple of a Saint." In it Miss Scudder enters a new field in literature, for this is an imaginary study, of the same period, of the same St. Catherine and of her disciples; and especially of one—Neri di Landoccio, the earliest and most interesting of her secretaries. The story is told with close adherence to facts, the portrait of the saint being dependent on the records for every trait, and almost every word. The effort has been made to show something of the inner and spiritual realities of a period dear to romance.

HERBERT B. TURNER & COMPANY are about to publish "The Physical Phenomena of Spiritualism—Fraudulent and Genuine," by Hereward Carrington, a book which deals in its first part with fraud in "spiritism," explaining the methods of deceit practised in slate writing, materialization and the like, and which in its second part takes up those phenomena vouched for by scientists of reputation—manifestations which the author believes to be supernormal. They will also publish shortly "The Ghost," by Arnold Bennett, formerly editor of the London Woman, and author of "Anna of the Five Towers," which has also been successfully published in America.

THE UNITED EDITORS' ASSOCIATION, 28 Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Ill., and 10 West Twenty-ninth Street, New York City, have in preparation "The United Editors' Encyclopædia and Dictionary," to be completed in forty volumes, and sold by subscription. The Association is offering a hundred shares of its stock at $100 each. "The investor," according to the plan of the Association as given in The Commercial Chronicle, for March 22, "has the option of putting in his money and sharing in the earnings of the business or he can select $100 worth of books in lieu of a five years' dividends. As there will be twenty sets of books in addition to the encyclopædia and dictionary above referred to, it is probable that many will elect to take the books which is equivalent to drawing 100 per cent. dividends in advance." Verbum sat.

BENJAMIN R. TUCKER, the editor of Liberty, an anarchistic journal, who has now opened a bookshop at 225 Fourth Avenue, New York City, has just brought out the first English translation of "The Ego and His Own," by Max Stirner, translated from the German by Steven T. Byington, in collaboration with other students of German and of Stirner, with an introduction by Dr. J. L. Walker. The work was first published in Germany more than sixty years ago, and received high praise from such writers as Eduard von Hartmann, Feuerbach and Lange. The purpose of the work is "to destroy the idea of duty and assert the supremacy of the will, and from this standpoint, in Nietzsche's phrase, to effect a transvaluation of all values and displace the State by a Union of Egoists conscious of their egoism." It has the reputation of being the most revolutionary book ever written.

JOHN LANE COMPANY have published a new edition of "Man Visible and Invisible," with a special new series of color plates furnished by the London Theosophical Society. The book is an exposition of an interesting subject in theosophical observation. The author holds that psychic states such as emotional changes of mood and well-developed traits of character produce in the properly sensitive observer sensations that result in a stimulus to the sense of color. Such a trained observer sees the surrounding the person observed an aura of various colors, the scheme of color being determined by the person's character and the mood of the moment. The color plates in this edition are faithful reproductions in the original tints of drawings by the author and others of auras which they have observed. This phenomenon was given popular currency by Kipling in his remarkable story "They," where he refers to it as "The Egg."

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY will publish at once "The Golden Hawk," by Edith Rickert, author of "The Reaper" and "Folly," with illustrations by W. T. Benda. "The Golden Hawk" is a story of singular charm; the scene is laid in Provence at the present time. Trillon, the hero, is the Hawk of the title, and the wooing and winning of Madeloun is a story full of joy. Mistral accepted the dedication of the book, which is a high compliment paid to an American worker by the greatest of all the poets of the Provence. New and interesting material about Daniel O'Connell is contained in his "Early Life and Journal," to be published this month by the Baker & Taylor Co. Dr. Arthur Houston edits the journal, which has never before been published. There are several new stories of a delightfully humorous nature, an account of O'Connell's parentage, early education, reading and earnings at the bar. Altogether the book is one of genuine interest.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will issue at once a somewhat unusual novel, "John Glyn," by Arthur Paterson. The peculiarity of the book is that while it is based on the author's thorough knowledge of settlement work in London, on which subject he has become an authority, it at the same time is so full of excitement and dramatic episodes that those features seemed to the publishers' readers among the strongest reasons for its publication. Mr. Paterson has already established his reputation both here and in England as a capable novelist, by his "Son of the Plains," "King's Agent," and other books. They will bring out about the same time "Leading American Soldiers," by R. M. Johnston, a Northern man, in whose work three Confederate generals—Lee, "Stonewall" Jackson and Joseph E. Johnston—appear alongside of the five Federal ones—Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, McClellan and Meade. This, in view of the numbers engaged in the Civil War, is possibly a just proportion. The five remaining leading American soldiers all led in conflicts before that war—Washington, Greene, Taylor, Scott and Andrew Jackson. Johnston's volume gives another sign of the inevitable effacement of sectional feeling.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready, in two fine volumes, "The Life and Letters of Edwin Lawrence Godkin," edited by Rollo Ogden, of the New York Evening Post; "The Truce in the East and Its Aftermath," by B. L. Putnam Weale, who believes that, by the terms of peace at Portsmouth, the solution of the Eastern problem was not merely postponed, but also greatly complicated; "Some Points in the Surgery of the Brain and Its Membranes," by Dr. Charles A. Ballance; "Epilepsy," by Dr. William Aldren Turner; and the third edition, extensively revised, of "Anæsthetics and Their Administration," by Dr. Frederic W. Hewitt. They are about to begin the publication of a series of books devoted to various phases of present-day social progress, under the title The American Social Progress Series. The general editor is Samuel McCune Lindsay, Professor of Sociology at the University of Pennsylvania and Professor-elect of Social Science at Columbia University. The first book in the series, to be published in a few weeks, is "The New Basis of Civilization," by Professor Simon N. Patten, of the University of Pennsylvania. This will be followed shortly by "Standards of Public Morality," by President Arthur T. Hadley, of Yale, and "Legislation and Administration for Social Welfare," by Professor Jeremiah W. Jenks, of Cornell.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish this month "The Mystics," a new novel by Katherine Cecil Thurston, author of "The Masquerader," etc., the story of a young man who, to win a fortune which he believes rightfully his, falsely assumes the leadership of a mystic order; "Through the Eye of the Needle," by W. D. Howells, a delightful story of love among peculiar conditions—that is, in Altruria, a country without money, in which one can't tell a cook from a lord or a farmer from a poet; "The Friendly Stars," by Martha Evans Martin, a book which brings the stars into friendly and familiar acquaintance, with an introductory note by Professor Harold Jacoby, of Columbia University; "The Life of Charles A. Dana," by General James Harrison Wilson, the life story of a man who was closely connected with the men and events of more than half a century, a great part of which is like the personal history of our own times; "Ferdinand Magellan," by Frederick A. Ober, a new volume in the Heroes of American History series; also, two books for boys: "Stolen Treasure," by Howard Pyle, stories of buccaneers and pirates, of danger and daring, with illustrations by the author, and "Strange Stories of the Revolution," by Molly Elliot Seawell, Howard Pyle and others, a new volume in Harper's Young People's series, which presents a series of dramatic scenes ranging from Lexington to Yorktown.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready "Signs and Portents in the Far East," by K. D. Cotes, an estimation of the commercial, military and political reckoning to be paid by the western world for the conditions now existing in the east, and an examination of the arsenals, dockyards and centres of industry in Japan and China; also, Loliée's "History of Comparative Literature," a translation, by Douglas Power, of the brief sketch of the general history of literature that in France ran through several editions in a few months, the translation having been made under M. Loliée's direct supervision and containing several additions of interest to English readers. They will publish about April 10 A. C. Benson's "Beside Still Waters," a book dealing, as do all of this author's works, "not with action or achievement or adventure, but with the calmer joys of living, the finer relations of the spirit, the deeper peace, in a word, with the often neglected resources of a meditative life," as the Outlook has it; "Vocal Faults and Their Remedies," by W. H. Breare, author of "Vocalism" and "Elocution." The book, which is the final volume of the series, is designed to save the many voices which are being ruined by bad teaching, and contains exhaustive analyses of vocal sounds. They will also bring out at about the same time A. Forel's "The Nervous and Mental Hygiene," in the Science Series, a popular treatise on the care of the nerves and brain, and a summary of the conclusions of science on this subject.

Besides these lists the volume, which is practically the second supplement to the "American Catalog" for the five years ending December 31, 1904, contains a full directory of publishers issuing books during 1906, statistics, etc.
